Selected videos from the Mind & Life Institute and Stanford University's Center for Compassion and Altruism Research and Education (CCARE) will be screened and discussed that feature His Holiness, the Dalai Lama, Matthieu Ricard and Richard J. Davidson. In their conversations on compassion, these spiritual leaders and scholars explore the wisdom of contemplative practices and the beneficial effects on individual and social transformation. These exemplars of universal thinking bring together the science of neuroplasticity and the wisdom of spiritual traditions for the sake of human betterment.
